2nd Security Force Assistance Brigade

Multiple Advisory Teams Providing Focused Ad in up to 15 African Countries

Regionally aligned with U.S. Africa Command, 2nd SFAB employs force packages consisting of approximately 20 teams of advisors from Fort Liberty, North Carolina. During a three-year assignment to the SFAB, advisors can expect one eight-month deployment to Africa where they conduct focused advising in as part of theater security cooperation missions. The brigade coordinates activities through the U.S. Army Southern European Task Force, Africa. Advisors also work and coordinate their activities in a joint, combined, and interagency environment, requiring a diverse and broadened skillset and experience. Today, as the brigade continues to strengthen partnerships and military cooperation across Africa, it is also ready for large-scale combat operations should crisis and conflict erupt anywhere in the world.

2nd SFAB strengthens and enables African land forces in support of the U.S. Army approach in Africa: partner led, U.S. enabled

Maneuver Advisory Teams focus on boosting partner nations' military effectiveness. By advising on and assisting with infantry and maneuver tactics, they aim to improve operational capabilities, fostering independence and regional security. Their hands-on mentorship approach is crucial for capacity building and stability enhancement.

Logistics Advisory Teams focus on strengthening partner nations' logistics and supply capabilities. They provide guidance on procurement, maintenance, and distribution, ensuring military operations are supported efficiently. They are key to enhancing operational readiness and sustainability, empowering partners with the skills needed for enduring force projection and stability.

Engineer Advisory Teams specialize in bolstering partner nations' engineering and construction capabilities. They advise on infrastructure development, fortification, and demolition, enhancing operational and logistical support for military missions.

Artillery Advisory Teams focus on enhancing partner nations' artillery capabilities. They provide expert advice on the use, maintenance, and strategic deployment of artillery systems, significantly improving partners' precision strike and battlefield support. They play a vital role in increasing the effectiveness and autonomy of partner forces, contributing to greater security and operational success.
